

Julie Fershtman, Michigan

Julie I. Fershtman, a Michigan lawyer for over 23 years, is widely considered to be one of the nation's leading Equine Law practitioners. Her clients include stables, trainers, associations, businesses, show management, and "celebrity clinicians" from across the United States. She has successfully tried a variety of equine-related cases before juries in four states and has achieved numerous courtroom victories.

Julie is Michigan's only Fellow of the American College of Equine Attorneys and is author of three books: (1) Equine Law & Horse Sense; (2) MORE Equine Law & Horse Sense; and (3) Litigating Animal Law Disputes: A Complete Guide for Lawyers. In addition, she has written over 200 articles on Equine Law.

She is also the nation's most highly demanded speaker on Equine Law with engagements in 27 states, including the industry's largest conventions such as the American Horse Council, Equine Affaire (Ohio, California, and Massachusetts), Equitana, American Riding Instructors Association, and National Conference on Equine Law. She is praised for her ability to explain legal concepts in an easy-to-understand style. Also, her busy law practice allows her to discuss actual disputes that occur in her many cases – and how to prevent them from happening to you.

For more information, visit www.equinelaw.net

At this year's MHC Horse Expo, Julie will address the topics "Liability in Equine Activities and 8 Suggestions for Avoiding It" and "In Difficult Financial Times -- Legal Disputes in a Tough Economy and How You Can Avoid Them."